REPUBLICAN IS ONE WHO BELIEVES IN GOVERNMENT RUN BY THE PEOPLE, THEMSELVES, SAYS BRISTOL BARRISTER

J. Leslie Kilcoyne, Esq., Tells "Why I Am A Republican" at Meeting of Lower Bucks County Council of Republican Women — Occasion is Council's "Candidates' Night."

"A Republican may be defined as a person who believes in government run by the people themselves—in the representative republican form of government," J. Leslie Kilcoyne, well-known attorney, said last night in addressing the Lower Bucks County Council of Republican Women at the Travel Club building. The occasion was the Council's "Candidates' Night." Mr. Kilcoyne spoke on the subject, "Why I Am A Republican."

"The best way to describe what a Republican is to use the words of Abraham Lincoln, the first Republican President," Mr. Kilcoyne continued. "He put it this way: 'Government of the people, by the people, and for the people.'"

"It is government of the people because it is the people you know, perhaps your next-door neighbor, whom you elect to do the governing. It is 'for' the people because in Congress and other legislative bodies, the majority expresses what is for the best interest of all the people. And it is 'by' the people because it is the people themselves who elect their public officials."

"Anybody who believes in this principle, who votes for it and fights for it, is a Republican."

"But being a Republican goes deeper. Part of the reason is expressed in the fundamental documents of this nation. You must read into the record the Declaration of Independence, and the Constitution, and the entire history of the U. S. A.

"The Declaration sets forth the reasons why we fought for independence from tyranny. The Constitution attempted forever to protect us from tyranny by dividing the powers of government into three branches—the executive, legislative and judicial."

"Our founding fathers did their best to separate and keep separate the powers which, united in a single pair of hands, could have created an absolute despotism."

"This nation lived for many years under the Constitution, abiding by it and following the division of powers it outlined. But the New Deal threw this overboard about fifteen years ago, and under the New Deal set up the most absolute dictatorship in history."

"For all the years since, we have been governed, not by the Acts of Congress, as the Constitution intended, but by executive decrees.
There were thousands of these under President Roosevelt. He would simply say: 'This is the law; obey it.'"

"I'm a Republican because I'm against that sort of thing. I'm a Republican because I don't believe in his attempt to pack the Supreme Court. I'm a Republican because I

IN AMERICAN LITERATURE PENNSYLVANIA'S PLACE

By William L. Werner

(Professor of American Literature, The Pennsylvania State College)

You can't measure authors as you do coal, iron and potatoes, but in literature too there's plenty of evidence that Pennsylvania ranks near the top.

It is a little known fact, for example, that Pennsylvania has produced a bigger and better crop of successful dramatists than any other state in the union.

What other state can match this record? Maxwell Anderson, leading American dramatist of recent years, was born in Atlantic (Crawford County), Pa. George S. Kaufman, our most successful writer of comedies, was born in Pittsburgh, and his first collaborator, Marc Connelly, comes from nearby McKeesport. George Kelly, another author of comedies, and Clifford Odets, leading proletarian dramatist, both hail from Philadelphia.

Where would the modern American theatre be without these hits and prize winners by Pennsylvania playwrights: "Joan of Lorraine," "Wintergreen," "The Late George Apley," "The Man Who Came to Dinner," "Green Pastures," "The Show-Off," "Craig's Wife," "Waiting for Lefty," and "The Golden Boy?"

But Pennsylvania's famous authors are not all of the twentieth century; they go back to 1732 when Ben Franklin first issued "Poor Richard's Almanac." Philadelphia is the state's oldest and greatest literary center. There Tom Paine issued his "Crisis" articles that heartened our Revolutionary soldiers, and Francis Hopkinson wrote the song, "Hail Columbia!" In 1828 Edgar Allan Poe came to Philadelphia for a 7-year stay as a magazine editor and about the same time Whittier published an anti-slavery journal there.

In the 1880's Philadelphia-born Frank Stockton set the world guessing whether the lady or the tiger came out of the arena door. At the turn of the century a galaxy of writers appeared—the physician S. Weir Mitchell, the journalist Richard Harding Davis, Kate Douglas Wiggin who invented "The Virginian," and Owen Wister who immortalized "The Virginian." In the twentieth century Philadelphia is famous for Aenes Reppel's witty essays, James Huneker's brilliant criticisms, Tom Daly's Italian dialect poems, and Christopher Morley's sketches.

Pittsburgh, second city of the state, also has a literary history—the songs of Stephen Collins Foster, Margaret Deland's friendly villagers, Mary Roberts Rinehart's mysteries and Gladys Schmitt's novels. Other well-known literary born or living in the Smoky City are Gertrude Stein, Robinson Jeffers, Hervey Allen, Hamlet Long, E. L. Peterson and Joseph L. Gruec.

A literary map of the state between Philadelphia and Pittsburgh would show an author or two in almost every county. Among the best known names are Bayard Taylor of Kennett Square, Joseph Hergeschneider of West Chester, Samuel Hoffenstein of Wilkes-Barre, Stephen Vincent Benet of Bethlehem, Wallace Stevens of Reading, John O'Hara of Pottsville, Helen R. Martin of Harrisburg, Elsie Singmaster of Gettysburg, Lloyd Milfin of Columbia, Mahlon L. Fisher of Williamsport, Sally Benson of Altoona, and Ida Tarbell of Titusville.

The Pennsylvania Dutch region has been full of dialect writers in verse and prose, of whom Henry Barbaugh, Thomas Harter and John Birmelin are perhaps best known. In Bucks County, near Philadelphia, a literary colony has sprung up in recent years that includes George Kaufman, Moss Hart, Dorothy Parker and (appropriately) the Nobel Prize winner, Pearl Buck.

At the numerous colleges and universities of the state scholars have published many books—Cornelius Weygandt of the University of Pennsylvania and Fred Lewis Pattee of The Pennsylvania State College being probably the most popular authors. Many small publishing houses are scattered through the state, and in Philadelphia are located one of the country's leading publishing houses, Lippincott's, and the firm that perhaps is tops in magazine output, the Curtis Publishing Company.

SAILOR DECIDES TO CHANGE HIS PLEA

Paul Underkoffler Pleads
Not Guilty to Charge Against Him

OTHER COURT CASES

DOYLESTOWN, Oct. 15—The October term of Civil Court opened Monday with two cases called for trial, with President Judge Hiram H. Keller and Judge Calvin S. Boyer presiding in two court rooms.

Judge Boyer presided in the case of William A. Donnelly, plaintiff, against LaMar Kramer, Governor; Jack Pritchard, secretary, and Oliver Dill, treasurer of Quaker-town Lodge, No. 1622, Loyal Order of Moose, an unincorporated association.

The suit grows out of an accident at the Quakertown Moose in which Donnelly was injured in a fall. The plaintiff is represented by Attorney Isaac J. Vanartsdalen, and the defendant by Attorney Webster S.
Achey.

Judge Keller is trying the action in assumpsit in which Ethel Burnham Lamb is plaintiff and Russell A. Fettingill is defendant. The case was tried at a previous term and a new trial granted after a verdict had been rendered.

In the Court of Quarter Sessions, Paul Underkoffler, a sailor, was allowed to withdraw his plea of guilty and change his plea to not guilty and to stand trial at next term of criminal court. Underkoffler was before the court last week when he pleaded guilty to assault and battery on a Philadelphia taxicab driver, Elmer Coryell, to whom he refused to pay the full fare after the cab driver had hauled him from Philadelphia to Croydon.

The case was continued until this term so that the cab driver could be on hand in court. The stories of the two men differed so the Court gave Underkoffler a chance again to admit his guilt and take the penalty or to withdraw his plea.

Underkoffler told the court that it was the cab driver that drew a black flag first and hit him over the head. Coryell said that was not the truth, that the black flag belonged to the sailor who hit him over the nose and broke it.

Widespread Damage Wreaked by Savannah Storm

Savannah, Ga.—Freak hurricane winds, estimated at a velocity of 100 miles an hour, struck an unprepared Savannah today, leaving widespread wreckage in its wake. The storm, which was moving northward up the Atlantic coast, made a sudden turn toward the west, inland into the historic Georgia coastal city with little warning, and howled in across the state. No injuries were reported immediately.

Havana—Patricia Schmidt had a joyous reunion with her father and stepmother today just before resumption of her trial for the killing of her tempestuous lover, former Chicago lawyer, John Lester Kee.

To Charge Cuban President with Treason

Havana—The Cuban Supreme Court decided today to forward to the Senate charges of treason against President Grau San Martin. The charges were made by Feliciano Maderna, one of the leaders of the unsuccessful expeditionary force that attempted to invade the Dominican Republic.

Army Plane Missing West of Denver

Denver—A search was underway today for an Army C-47 plane from Hillfield, Oregon, Utah, believed forced down in a storm in the mountains 25 miles northwest of Denver. The craft, reportedly carrying a crew of seven, radioed Lowry field, Denver, when within 75 miles of Denver but failed to make a scheduled landing at the field.

Crowds Throng Church For Benediction Program

BUCKINGHAM, Oct. 15—A rededication service at Trinity Episcopal Chapel, here, Sunday, attracted such a crowd that all could not be accommodated.

The chapel, which is 107 years old and seats 133 comfortably, had 159 in attendance while others stood in the vestibule and in the rear.

Declaring that the church is face to face with its greatest opportunity, Bishop Oliver J. Hart, of the Diocese of Pennsylvania, who re-dedicated the various gifts and improvements to the church, said:
"Church goes ought to accept this challenge and in that spirit increase the membership of the church which now has one of its greatest opportunities."

The Rev. Neville H. Caley, of Langhorne, dean of the Convocation of Germantown, was also in attendance and took part in the service.
A former rector, Rev. Charles Eby, of the Church of the Incarnation, Drexel Hill, and layreader, Stuart Hutchinson, assisted the rector, the Rev. Roderic Pierce.

Gifts to the parish and improvements are believed to amount to $15,000 at least. The chapel suffered a $16,000 loss by fire last May 15.

A new bell, in memory of Ensign Theodore Weld Sterling, 3d, U. S. N. R. flyer, who lost his life in the South Pacific, was dedicated.
Other gifts include a new tile floor for the chancel and sanctuary, lights and wrought iron gates.

WHO'S DUMB NOW?

For 12 years the people who go overboard for intelligence testing have been sounding off about the dumbness of Americans. They are fond of saying that that mythical human being, the average American, has the intelligence of a 12-year-old child. They never say what child, which is the crux of the matter. Now comes Dr. Joseph Jastak, retiring president of the Delaware Psychological Association, and deposes that these IQ extremists are themselves dumb. This stuff about 12-year-old intelligence, he quite correctly points out, is a "statistical artifact." It amounts to saying that the average adult is less intelligent than the average 12-year-old, which is preposterous.

These remarks do not reflect on the genuine value of intelligence tests—as used by experts who understand their limitations. The right tests can compare, with a probable error which is very small, the average "intelligence" of two large selected groups. They can compare, with a considerably larger margin of error, the "intelligence" of two individuals.

But they can do this only by making the arbitrary assumption that the complex of qualities they measure may accurately be called intelligence. Hence intelligence tests, properly used, help solve practical problems such as determining what work or which school class an individual will do best in. But as a measure of the innate intellectual worth of individuals or groups, they fall down. They were not devised for that.

Meanwhile intelligence testing is being steadily improved, and its usefulness is being widened. It should not be held against the tests that some persons cite them to perpetrate fallacies.

Because he charges an admission to hear his speeches, Henry Wallace may lose his amateur standing and be barred from the 1948 political campaign on professional grounds. But to many Henry will always be an amateur.

don't believe in accumulating all the powers of government in the hands of one man and his friends, with no appeal to the courts.

"Is it any wonder the people of this country finally got tired of this? Is it any wonder that, when the CIO concentrated its heavy artillery on this one Congressional district, the people of Bucks and Lehigh Counties rose in their wrath, and showed what they thought of their experience with this kind of government?"

"I'm proud to be a Republican because as a practicing attorney I have come in contact with those who run the affairs of the County, and have admiration for the businesslike and efficient manner in which County affairs are conducted in Bucks County."

"Since I have been the Solicitor for the Borough of Bristol, my respect for Republican administration has increased a hundred-fold. The Borough Government is conducted by a party of advancement. It is forward-looking and progressive."

"At the present time the Borough is concentrating on improvements in the Fourth Ward. It is connecting streets, water mains and sewer lines where the new By-Pass Highway comes through. All this is being done by use of the bond issue recently sanctioned by the citizens of Bristol."

"In conclusion, let me say that I am proud to be a Republican because I believe in the doctrines of the Republican Party, because I believe in the form of government which the Republican Party stands for. I am a Republican because I believe that is the best way to advance Americanism."

The other principal speaker of the evening was former U. S. Senator Joseph R. Grundy, who warmly congratulated the Lower Bucks County Council, and its president, Mrs. Minerva O. Epstein, for the part they played in the recent election of Congressman Franklin H. Lichtenwalter.

"The longer I live," he said, in discussing the Congressional campaign, "the more I am satisfied that politics is like a kaleidoscope. Campaigns are all different, and often they change completely while they are under way."

"The recent campaign started out under the happiest auspices. The year 1946 had given the American people an opportunity to file a protest which was a resounding victory for the fundamental principles of Americanism. The country turned Congress over to the Republicans after a lapse of fifteen years."

"The new Congress met last January. After the delays caused by the Re-organization Plan, no other Congress ever wound up working as hard or as intelligently, and none ever voted more unanimously to uphold the findings of its committees."

"It passed tax reductions twice, which were vetoed by the President. If the White House had not been so powerful, it would have succeeded in making vast reductions in the payroll and expenditures which are gradually eating up the substance of this nation."

"The Taft-Hartley Labor Law was given the greatest consideration. The labor bosses refused to attend the hearings. They would not help work out the new labor law—they were just against any changes whatever. The law was finally passed and adopted over the veto, and became the law of the land."

"Meanwhile our Congressman, Mr. Charles L. Gerlach had died. Under the party rules, the conferees from Bucks and Lehigh counties met. The Bucks County conferees, not to minimize our own citizens, went into the matter on the patriotic principle of trying to find the man who could poll the biggest support in the two counties."

"Mr. Lichtenwalter was the unanimous choice, because of his extensive and successful career in legislative work."

"Because the Republicans had carried the district by a goodly majority last year, the Democrats of Bucks and Lehigh counties were loathe to tackle the campaign. It looked for a while as though we would sail through with no opposition."

"Then out of a clear sky Mr. Murray of the CIO, and Mr. Reuther of the United Auto Workers, and Mr. Whitney of the trainmen, took over. They served notice that they were going to use the District as a guinea-pig to test the Taft-Hartley Act. The invaders began coming in. Senator Holland of Pittsburgh moved in with his family, and started conducting the campaign. A staff of publicity experts and propagandists from New York appeared. It was an invasion of those who didn't live in the district, who didn't pay taxes here, and who would leave just as soon as they had picked a Congressman to do their bidding in Congress."

"The attack on the Taft-Hartley Act was an attack on the law of the land. It was a challenge to Constitutional government."

"The Republican reply to this challenge was a piece of work most praiseworthy, and the outcome reflected the good judgment of the people of Bucks County."

"There resulted a tremendous turnout of voters, and a record-breaking Republican majority. It showed how much sound, common-sense judgment is left in our people, even after fifteen years of misrule and confusion at Washington."

Mrs. Epstein, in calling the meeting to order, emphasized the importance of year-round political activity.

"Politics is not just a job at elections," she said. "It is a matter for all the year. Get out and work! See that our Republican ticket is elected this November, as a forerunner of the national elections next year, most important ever held at which we all hope to elect a Republican President."

In the absence of County Chairman A. Harry Clayton, who is ill, State Senator Edward B. Watson presented the Republican candidates for county office, as follows: For Register of Wills, Eugene T. Rosenberger; for County Treasurer, Elwood A. Britton; for Clerk of Orphans Court, Mary H. Dunn; for Clerk of Quarter Sessions, Matthew L. Godshall; for County Commissioner, Simon K. Moyer and Joseph W. Hallowell. Two of the county candidates were unable to attend the meeting. They are J. Alfred Rigby, running for re-election as Coroner; and Amos J. Kirk, seeking re-election as County Surveyor.

After the addresses, refreshments were served.

John Fox, Richmond street, Philadelphia, bruises of shoulder. Lucy Santoro, of 1200 block of N. Masher street, Philadelphia, bruises and lacerations of leg.

According to State Police at Langhorne barracks, Whitecraft, operating a sedan, struck the rear end of a truck operated by William J. Veisz, 27, Bristol R. D., on the Lincoln Highway at Fallsington as Veisz was preparing to make a left turn. Whitecraft was taken to Mercer Hospital, Trenton, N. J., and his car was badly damaged. The accident occurred at 8.30 last evening.

The other six injured were riding in a car operated by Lawson. Falling to make a curve as they travelled south on Bristol road, Benslem township, the car struck a pole and turned over. Bucks County Rescue Squad removed the six to Nazareth Hospital, Philadelphia. The car is a total wreck.

Two youths died yesterday in Doylestown Emergency Hospital as a result of injuries received in an accident Saturday night when their automobile collided with another car on Easton Road, three miles south of Doylestown.

Fred J. Nagle, 21, of Kintnersville, driver of the car in which Robert G. Lind, 21, of 375 Lakeview avenue, Drexel Hill, was killed instantly, died at six a. m. yesterday of a brain concussion.

Louis Schneider, 18, of 357 Lake-

Two persons in the other car involved are still in a critical condition in Abington Memorial Hospital. They are John Mitchell, 35, of Kingston, the driver, and his passenger, James Frederick, 23, of Lazerve.

FIREMEN ANSWER THREE CALLS

Bristol firemen responded to three calls yesterday. The first was at 10.45 a. m. at Bossler's garage, 561

Otter street. A fire started in the trunk compartment of a car there already damaged in a previous accident. Mechanics unable to pry open the trunk lid because it was jammed from the accident, summoned the fire department. Damage was slight. The other two were false alarms. The first was at 9.50 p. m.

at box 49, and the second at 10.45 at box 38.
